

THINGS TO CONSIDER BEFORE TAKING PART.

We want you to be empowered with important information that will help you make the right decision for you. So, here are some examples of questions you can ask before you decide to take part in clinical research:

What kinds of tests and treatments are involved?

What is the purpose of the study?

Who will be in charge of my care?

Why do researchers believe the new treatment being tested may be effective? Has it been tested before?

How might this research affect my daily life?

How will I know that the treatment is working?

How do the possible risks, side effects, and benefits in the study compare with my current treatment?

What type of long-term follow up care is part of this study?

Can I bring a friend or relative to appointments with me?

Will results of the research be provided to me?

Will I need to go into hospital?

How long will the clinical research last?

Will I be reimbursed for expenses?

WE WANT TO HELP MAKE MORE PEOPLE FEEL COMFORTABLE AND CONFIDENT IN THEIR UNDERSTANDING OF CLINICAL RESEARCH.
